A WAR EXPERT'S VIEWS.

What Hammersmith Browne Thinks of the Natal Campaign.

Mr. Hammersmith Browne, the famous military expert who has been closely watching the progress of the South African war from his lodgings in Piccadilly square, London, has again favored the public with some valuable views on the mismanagement of the campaign.

Mr. Browne says: "If Great Britain's noble army in Natal had been more active, it would have been less idle. General Buller made his first grievous error when he permitted the Boers to crowd him back. This seeming success no doubt animated the enemy to still greater exertions, whereas a defeat would in a measure have discouraged them. See my pamphlet entitled 'Zones of Fire,' page 75.

"What Buller should have done was to get behind the Boers at all hazards, a movement which doesn't appear to have occurred to him. Once safely behind them, he could have pushed the whole Boer pie stand clear to the coast and into the arms of General Roberts. General Methuen, too, seems to have entirely neglected the chance afforded him of advancing by entailed zigzags. This beautiful movement would have made the Boers dizzy at the very outset, and Methuen would then have been able to do with them as he pleased. So, too, with Macdonald and Dundonald. Neither appears to have grasped the opportunities so plainly laid down before him. The Boers were there and waiting, yet for some unexplained reason the British generals seemed entirely unable to take advantage of this favorable fact.

"No doubt the Boer problem has something to do with these continued blunders. The fact is the British generals have made a very serious mistake in doing their fighting in a Boer neighborhood.

"To sum up, the campaign has been marked by too many British defeats and not enough British victories, and all this can be ascribed to a pertinacious disregard for the ordinary rules of modern warfare, which I have been at some pains to point out and which I recommended to the war office at the beginning of the conflict in my celebrated paper beginning 'How to Win Battles on Paper.'"

Greater Napoleons.

"I don't see why so many people envy a character like Napoleon."

"It's due to the native egotism of the human race. Every man imagines that if he had been in Napoleon's place he would have been considerably smarter and managed to keep away from St. Helena."—Washington Star.

The Sole Survivor.

"He is the only survivor of the thirty years' war, in which he was a participant."

"Nonsense! The thirty years' war occurred centuries ago."

"Not the one I mean. It ended only last week with the death of his wife."

—Philadelphia Press.

Of a Glimmering Disposition.

Houx—Klumsy is very fond of horses, isn't he?

Joex—If he is, it's something new.

Houx—Well, I saw him out riding the other day, and he had both arms around the horse's neck. —Philadelphia Record.

LINGERING LA GRIPPE COUGH.

G. Vacher, 157 Osmond St., Chicago, says: "My wife had a very severe case of la grippe, and it left her with a very bad cough. She tried a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and it gave immediate relief. A few more bottles cured her cough entirely." P. 10c 25c and 50c. W. A. D'Almeida.

MEARES IS FOUND GUILTY.

Prominent Carolina Educator Convicted Raising Orphan Girl.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 10.—Professor J. C. Meares, who until he resigned three months ago was instructor in the state institute for the deaf and the dumb and the blind, has been found guilty at Spartanburg of the charge brought against him—raising Cora Jenkins, a young girl and orphan, while she was in his home.

Meares and his wife are about 65 years old. The girl was found in the streets when her shame was apparent and drifted to the porch. Meares refused his assistance. Mrs. Meares made every effort to clear her husband, but was contradicted in important particulars by the matron of the "Door of Hope," in Columbia.

The defense gave notice of a motion for a stay of judgment and also a motion for a new trial.

INCENDIARY CRANK'S WORK.

Evidence Showing That Churches in Chicago Were Set on Fire.

CHICAGO, March 10.—From evidence collected it is believed the destruction by fire of the Second Presbyterian church and the burning a few weeks ago of the Trinity Methodist church were the work of an incendiary crank. Both fires started in the organ loft, where it was almost impossible to reach the flames. Rev. W. E. McLennan, pastor of Trinity church, today received a postal card bearing the following message: "God does not care any more for churches than he does for barns, or he would not let them burn up."

An effort will be made to find the writer.

Alabama to Plant More Cotton.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 10.—The figures in the office of the commissioner of agriculture show a startling increase in the sale of tags for fertilizers for Alabama. Last year, that is the season 1898-1899 to March 1, 645,780 tags were sold. This year for the season 1899-1900 to March 1, there have been sold 1,127,000 tags. It is required by law that to every sack of fertilizer sold in the state one of these tags must be attached. The great increase in the sales of the tags is considered an indication that the cotton acreage this year will be greatly in excess of last year.

Rules for Lent.

All the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year and who have not begun their sixtieth year, and who are not exempted from the obligation of fasting by sickness, hard work or other well known reasons, are obliged to fast on all the days of Lent, except Sundays.

On those days but one full meal is allowed, which should not be taken before noon.

Custom allows a cup of coffee, tea or thin chocolate, and a small piece of bread or a cracker, to be taken in the morning; and in the evening, a collation, not exceeding the fourth part of an ordinary meal, is allowed. At this collation, butter, cheese, milk, eggs and all kinds of fruit, fish and vegetables are allowed. When the principal meal cannot without grave inconvenience be taken at noon, it is permissible to take the collation in the morning and the dinner in the evening.

Abstinence from the use of flesh is enjoined on all the Wednesdays and Fridays of Lent and on the Sunday of Ember Week and on Holy Saturday.

The use of hard is allowed in cooking.

Fish and flesh are not allowed at the same meal, even on Sundays.

Eggs, cheese, milk and butter may be used every day, but abstinence from all of these is recommended on Good Friday.

Persons exempted from the obligation of fasting are not bound by the restriction of using meat but once a day on the days in which the use of meat is permitted by dispensation.

Children over seven years of age are bound by the law of abstinence, unless excused by sickness or other causes.

The paschal time, in which all Catholics who have come to the years of discretion are bound to receive holy communion worthily, extends from the first Sunday of Lent till Trinity Sunday, inclusive. Children over seven years of age are bound by the precept of annual confession. Pastors and parents should see that the children comply with this duty.

The holy season of Lent is a time of prayer, of sorrow for sin, of reclusion from the world and its amusements, and of generous almsgiving.

By a special indult granted to the bishops of the United States for ten years, dating from March 15, 1895, working people, who cannot easily observe the common law of the church, are dispensed from the obligation of abstinence on all days of the year except Fridays, Ash Wednesday, Holy Week and Christmas Eve. This dispensation does not exempt from the additional obligation of fasting, where such exists, nor does it authorize the use of fish and flesh at the same meal. It includes, however, not only the individual workmen in whose favor it is granted, but all the members of their families as well. In return it is expected that these who avail themselves of this indulgent will endeavor to enter into the spirit of the holy season of Lent by voluntary acts of mortification, penance and almsgiving. A most praiseworthy custom is that of abstaining during Lent from stimulants, in honor of the sacred thirst of our divine Savior.

Those who entertain any reasonable doubt about their obligation to fast or abstain, ought to apply to their pastor or confessor for advice.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

If you would be quite up to date you must have embroidered satin slippers to match your evening gowns and tea gowns as well.

Lace will be a prominent feature of millinery as well as tulle and chiffon, and we are promised hats all of lace, with lace strings.

The inevitable summer shirt waist is here in full swing and with such charming variations in style and price that it is more alluring than ever.

The new spring jackets, so far as they have displayed their intentions, are in the Eton or bolero shapes, falling a little below the waist line in front.

Feather boas in the flat instead of the round shapes are the correct thing, especially in the mother of pearl shades of marabout mixed with ostrich feathers.

One of the novelties in material for separate waists is a plaid silk, either pale blue or pink and white, divided in diamond square with narrow valencienne lace insertion.

The new artificial flowers are dreams of beauty in pastel colorings, delicate shadings and exquisite daintiness of texture. Many of them are made of gauzy silk and chiffon.

High heeled shoes seem to be coming into vogue again, and the bulldog toe, except for strictly walking purposes, is out of it altogether. The medium round toe is the fancy of the moment.

Lace straps which are dainty reminders of the old time hats worn by our grandmothers are revived again and in the same old patterns in some cases. In fact, all kinds and conditions of fancy brims are already in sight.

The craze for buttons on cloth gowns seems to be increasing, and it must be granted that they give a pretty touch of color to a costume. Buttons set with real gems are the thing if you can afford them; if not, the very latest fancy is cameo in either stone or shell. —New York Sun.

"I think I would go crazy with pain were it not for Chamberlain's Pain Balm," writes Mr. W. H. Stapleton, Hermitage, Pa. "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for several years and have tried remedies without number, but Pain Balm is the best medicine I have yet got hold of." One application relieves the pain. Six More Bodies Recovered.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 10.—Six more bodies were recovered from Red Ash mine today. The total number of dead so far is 37. All the bodies recovered today were beyond recognition. It is thought that others are still in the mine.

Confederate Veteran Assassinated.

KNOXVILLE, March 10.—A special to The Sentinel from Middleboro says Henry Norton, a highly esteemed aged citizen of that section, was shot from ambush and seriously wounded while on Baker's creek. No cause is assigned as he was not known to have an enemy. He is an ex-confederate soldier.
